HICKORY HILL

EVERGREEN and FLOWERING SHRUBS

HICKORY HILL NURSERY, growers of the finest hybrid and true varieties of evergreens, is proud to offer a limited quantity of choice, hardy Azaleas, hybrid Rhododendrons, and other evergreen shrubs.

Evergreen and flowering shrubs such as Azaleas, Rhododendrons, Taxus and Andromedas are slow growing types particularly adaptable to plantings near the house, for mass plantings and borders.

LANDSCAPING

A few specimen plants of Azaleas and Rhododendrons are available from our display gardens. Beautiful, unusual blooms in both evergreen and deciduous type—also large Dogwood and Yews.

HARDY AZALEAS

Azaleas are unsurpassed for foundation as well as mass plantings. The profusion of gorgeous flowers in many lovely colors adds beauty and warmth to your garden. By a careful selection of varieties, the blooming season of these hardy shrubs may extend from April through June. Available in 1, 2, 3 and 4 year old plants.

HYBRID RHODODENDRONS

Hickory Hill's 4 year old hybrid Rhododendrons are handsome plants with large beautiful flower heads in exotic colors. Broad, evergreen, leathery foliage is ideal for foundation planting or in shrub borders.

FLOWERING CRABS

Bechtel's Crab Even the youngest of crabapple trees are covered with lovely soft pink blooms in the early spring. This lawn specimen tree is bushy in growth with delicate green foliage.

HEMLOCKS

The short needles and graceful branches of the Hemlock make it ideal for borders, background plants or hedges. Hemlocks are easily trimmed, hardy and a most desirable garden subject.

TAXUS

TAXUS Kelsyi-berry yew Hardy evergreen Yew. Beautiful dark green needles bearing bright red berries in the fall.

TAXUS Hicksii This Upright Yew is a handsome evergreen with lustrous dark green needles.

TAXUS Brevifolia Slow growing, dense.

ANDROMEDA

The Lily-of-the-Valley shrub is one of the loveliest of all-year evergreen plants. Their graceful, white, waxy flowers resembling Lily-of-the-Valley sprays cover the plants in early spring. Its bushy growth and copper toned new foliage make this one of the most useful of low evergreen shrubs.

MAGNOLIAS

STAR MAGNOLIA, Stellata The first Magnolia to bloom, this pink, star-shaped, semi-double, sweet scented variety is an excellent dwarf type for specimen planting.
PURPLE LILY MAGNOLIA, Soulangeana nigra Large dark purple flowers bloom in May—huge shrub-like plant.

MISCELLANEOUS

Cataneasters, evergreen plant with small flowers in the spring and small berries in the fall—suitable for rock gardens, poor soil or wall planting.

JAPANESE RED MAPLES

Decorative for any home yard.

FLOWERING DOGWOOD

Producing lovely pink blossoms in early spring.

MOUNTAIN LAUREL

Evergreen with pink or white flowers in the spring, especially adaptable to hillside and partially shady areas.

HICKORY HILL NURSERY • ROUTE 25A • FORT SALONGA, LONG ISLAND

In late spring, when Rhododendron and Azalea blooms brighten the countryside, we invite our gardening friends to visit our unique display of these favorites blooming together, each complementing the other with their individual beauty. Our amphitheatre of Rhododendrons and Azaleas is unrivalled in this area. The beauty and color of these hybrids will long be remembered for this propagating stock was brought to Hickory Hill from Europe many years ago, and is now an outstanding garden presentation.
